

The Greenback Labor Campaign—A Coryman on the Stump.—A mass meeting under the auspices of the Union Greenback Labor Club was held at Lexington and streets last night. Flags were displayed from the windows of the club-rooms and under them a transparency with the name of the club. A speaker's stand was erected in front of a window on the first floor decorated with flags and Chinese lanterns. In front of it was inscribed:
"A pure ballot-box and an honest count is what we demand." About 200 persons were in the audience. Charles Luker, secretary of the club, called the meeting to order. The Rev. Steven was elected president and B. B. Knell secretary.
Rev. Uriel Graves said he was conscious of what he was about to undertake before he consented to have anything to do with public affairs. He did not forget that he was a minister of the Gospel and did not expect to do so, but he was also conscious of his duty as a citizen of the country. He did not know whether he would ever be a candidate for Congress or any office, but thought it best to allow all to know his political history. He was born and was a democrat, was for Douglas in 1860, was a Union man during the war, voted for Lincoln "and the cessation of the war" in 1864, and since had taken no part in politics and now Steven believed he knew something and wanted to say it.
In 1864 some of his old democratic friends in New York State denounced him strongly for assisting to raise troops for the federal service. After Lincoln's election one of them told him the attack was made because his name was to court the party. He said that a party with such feelings ought to go to the d—N. One could deny there was great trouble in the country, for both the republican and democratic parties were always promising reform.
There was too great a difference in the conditions of men, some in affluence and others in want and equal. This might be remedied by the people by proper legislation. Politics had been run in the round. He then proceeded to "politicize" to him it was as when some said "Christian." The thing smelted as he knew they only meant "churchman." They did not know or mean what a real Christian was, or what the real enemies of the country has generally come to signify a dirty, tricky fellow, while in reality a politician is one who seeks the good of the State as opposed to a "partisan." If all the republican and democratic leaders were in heaven, and if it were not to hurt the United States a particle.
Mr. Graves then told how he joined a working-man's club, and was converted to greenback doctrines by Mr. C. Ward, and was now a "full-fledged greenbacker." He then proceeded to explain and advocate the greenback doctrines of the redemption of all government bonds in currency to be issued. He condemned utterly the system of national banks and the use of money for loaning it out at interest. The men who were the real enemies of the country were those who lived merely on the interest of their money. In the work of reform they would begin at home. Baltimore made a little cleaning out. In conclusion, he said the country was marching to the right, and that the reform unless a correction of national affairs shall be made within fourteen months. Monarchy could come by coalition of monied interests. The workmen could prevent it, but many workmen had no backbone. They had fish gags in place of backbone. They could not be determined in action, which the "pudding" tickets, and see that they were not put in the ballot-boxes, and the "dead men" that they did not vote. He urged them to do their duty, and vote for their principles. [Applause.] Charles Ward followed Mr. Graves, and explained in detail the doctrines of the party as set forth in their platform.

Collision and Drowning of a Youth.—N.
B. Keene, 18 years of age, and residing at No.
54 North Fremont street, son of the late N.
B. Keene, of New Orleans, and formerly employed by R. S. Stroebel, of this city, was drowned on Monday night by a collision between the yacht Curlew, in which he and several companions were sailing, and the steamer Bovere, from the Chesapeake river. Captain Hollyday commanded the yacht. The accident occurred near Love Point light, about fifteen miles from the Seven-foot Knoll, at the mouth of the Chesapeake river, and the yacht was under full sail at the time, with the water rough. The steamer struck the yacht about three feet from the stern, and young Keene, who was standing in the "pit," was the only one knocked overboard by the shock. Thomas Hayward, of Boston, who was aboard, went to his assistance in a yawlbout which the yacht had in tow, but having only one oar could make no headway in the rough water.
He then called to the captain of the steamer, and was taken on board. The captain wished to take him to Baltimore, but he objected, and was again placed in the yawlbout. He was subsequently picked up by the yacht. The body of Keene has not yet been recovered.

For Halifax and Europe.—The steamer Captain of the Allan line, will leave Baltimore for Liverpool at 9 A. M. to-day, with a cargo and thirty-six cabin passengers, as follows: For and wife, F. A. Boely and son, Washington;

Klingender, Miss Ernestine Klingender, England; Intermediate, Thos. Roland and family, Baltimore, and fourteen stowage passengers.
The steamer Strassburg, from New York, is expected to arrive at Baltimore the latter part of this week.

Trapping a Burglar.—For some time past Mr. J. H. Granberry, doing business at No. 2 North Charles street, has missed goods from his store. Watch was kept, but no one was found.
As soon, however, as watching ceased at night the robbery would be repeated. On Monday night Mr. Granberry remained in his store, and, finding a string to the trap-door from the cellar, through which it was supposed the burglar entered, arranged it so that when the door was opened the string would pull against him. Early yesterday morning he was awakened by feeling the string move over his body. Springing from bed, he let the trap-door fall, and drew his pistol, which brought officer McGuire to the place. The handles had been removed from the trap, and the thief could not lift it to get out. When the officer arrived search was made, and Henry Smith, colored, was found behind the counter. He had entered the cellar through the coal hole. Justice Jones committed him for the action of the grand jury.

City Railway Troubles.—The embroglio between the People's line and the Baltimore City Passenger railway companies about the right of way over the old Druid Hill Park Boundary avenue to Druid Hill Park has not developed further. The People's line are busily engaged completing the trestle over Butcher's run and laying track, and the old company yesterday morning called on the People's line and did nothing more, except keeping a number of watchmen and patrolmen on the lookout over the tracks they have laid down. The cars on the new line were yesterday running from Locutt Point up Druid Hill avenue as far as Orchard street.

The Reward of Good Conduct.—Franklin Jackson, colored, was yesterday discharged from the Maryland penitentiary, he having served the term of his first sentence, and after twenty days, shortened for good behavior during his imprisonment. He was convicted in Howard county, his case having been removed from Montgomery county. James Howard, also colored, was discharged after ten months' imprisonment, he having gained his freedom by liberty by good conduct. Howard was sent from Caroline county.

A Wayward Nurse.—The family of Mr. J.
W. Colton, No. 228 Druid Hill avenue, have become much annoyed by the conduct of a nurse, who took a four-year-old child of Mr. Colton on the steamer Weems for a trip to Annapolis last Friday. The steamer did not land at Annapolis, but went to Fair Haven, where the nurse landed alone, and returned with her friends there, returning to Mr. Colton's with the child on Monday night. The family were in great distress, and the father was off at Annapolis, hunting for news of his child, while the nurse arrived home with the child.

The Point of Rocks Case.—The body of Jacob Stahl, of No. 174 King street, which was found in the canal near Point of Rocks, Md., last Saturday, was brought to this city yesterday morning by his son-in-law, Julius G. J.
Gude, No. 33 North Pine street, and will be interred to-day. No inquest was held, and the family are of the opinion that death was the result of foul play. One of Mr. Stahl's legs was broken in two places, and there is a depression in the back of his head, it is stated. The valve which he carried has not been found.

Pennmar Park.—A train in two sections, carrying 600 people, went from Baltimore to Pennmar park on the Western Maryland railroad yesterday morning. The day was very pleasant, the weather being favorable for a visit to the mountains. There were many visitors to Pennmar also from the towns along the upper part of the road. The action taken by J. B. Adams in regard to the Pennmar property was taken, not to suppress any disorder there, because none has existed, but to guard against the possibility of it.

Royal Anniversary.—Chesapeake Council of the Royal Arcanum was instituted last night by 7 years, son of Geo. Essex, No. 145 Druid Hill avenue, was run over and killed, injured by a baggage wagon on Druid Hill road, near Frederic street. The flesh of the left leg was badly torn, and he was otherwise bruised.

Fell from a Window.—Balthasar Vogel, 43 years old, fell from the third-story front window of his house, No. 284 North Washington street, about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, resulting in injuries which are expected to result fatally. He had gone to bed with one of his children, and getting up in the night took his seat in the open window. It is supposed he went to the window and fell out striking the pavement, about thirty feet below, on his hands and head. Both his arms were fractured above the wrist, his jawbone broken and his skull fractured, besides other injuries. He was removed to the City Hospital by Dr. Streck, and was lying last night, though there was but little hope of his ultimate recovery. Vogel is a German, cigar-maker by trade, and has a wife and eight children.

An Interesting Paper.—The Firemen's Insurance Company, of Baltimore, have recently come into possession of the first fire insurance policy ever issued by that company. It is dated August 2, 1826, and was issued to Jacob Albert & Co., on $20,000 stock of hardware in warehouse northwest corner of Howard street and Cowpen corner. The same policy is in force held by descendants of Jacob Albert in the same business on South Charles street, and the company in receiving the old paper released it in a new form. Policies Nos. 3 and 5 taken out about the same time by Matthew Smith and the Cohen family are in existence, having been continued up to the present time.

Suit for Damages.—A suit was instituted yesterday in the Court of Common Pleas by John Heath, through his counsel, John Henry Keene, Jr., and J. Henry Duval, against the Baltimore Printing and Publishing Company for defamation of character, claiming $10,000 dan-ages. A similar suit will be brought to-day by the same counsel for Elizabeth Heath, sister of John Heath. The Bulletin Company sold their paper, the Evening Bulletin, a few days ago to Mr. E. Bonarvin.

Disallowed.—Commissioner Rogers yesterday dismissed the charge against Michael Donohoe of passing a counterfeit half dollar coin. This was the case in which it was claimed the counterfeit was substituted for a genuine 25 cent piece after Donohoe in the same business in Blair market. The commissioner was not satisfied there was any intention to violate the law.

Prominent Voyagers.—The steamer Captain, of the Allan line, Bruce for Halifax and Europe to-day, carried quite a large party to Halifax, among whom are Archbishop Wood, of Philadelphia; Bishop Geo. W. Peterkin, of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of West Virginia; Hons. Lloyd Lowndes, Jr., of Cumberland, and W. J. O'Brien, of Baltimore.

The Register of Voters met last night, and decided upon the places for their office. Geo.
W. Green, A. J. Smith, Patrick O'Mear, Daniel B. Buckley and J. R. Dundon were appointed a committee to wait on Marshal Gray and obtain officers to attend at the places of registration.
The contract for making precinct and ward books was awarded to W. J. C. Dulany.

A Flower Mission.—The ladies of the recently organized flower mission pay regular visits to the city hospitals, and flowers, fruit and books which they distribute are gladly received by the inmates. Contributions of such articles can be sent to the care of the Academy of Music every Friday, from 9 to 11 A. M.

Peaches.—The arrivals of peaches at the wharves yesterday were only about up to the local demand, and they were soon grabbed up by the hawkers and other dealers. They were of very good quality, and sold at from 70 to 90 cents a box for the best.

A Pleasure Cruise.—Capt. H. A. James and a crew of pleasure seekers, neatly uniformed, left Fell's Point yesterday morning in the schooner Mattila L. for a cruise along the Chesapeake bay.

Personal.—Miss Julia Jackson, the only daughter of Gen. "Stonewall" Jackson, will go to school next season in Baltimore, and Mrs.
Jackson is understood to will reside here during the education of her daughter.

LOCAL MATTERS.

Fertilizer Factories—A Strong Protest Against Their Continuance.—Cross-street Hall was filled to overflowing last night with citizens of South Baltimore, "to take into consideration the importance of suppressing the intolerable nuisances now existing in our neighborhood, caused by the fertilizing factories located in the different sections of South Baltimore." Thus read the call, signed "Many Citizens," which had been distributed two or three days previously. Mr. Wm. Bone called the meeting to order, and further explained its object in a speech replete with vigorous English and strong Anglo-Saxon denunciation of the fertilizer establishments, which he characterized as destructive to the health, life, comfort and property of citizens of the section affected.
He denied a rumor which he said was abroad to the effect that the meeting had been projected for political purposes; men of all shades of political opinion were active in their opposition to the continuance of the fertilizer factories in South Baltimore, and they were as determined as the speaker in their resolution that the nuisance must be abated. Mr. John T. Grindall was called to preside and Edward H. Fowler was chosen secretary, with Jacob Funk, George W. Della, Daniel Piquet and others as vice-presidents. A committee, consisting of Wm. Bone, John Streckfus, John Rosemark, Wm. Kent, Louis Ehlers, Dr. H. B. Noble, John Nagle, Richard McCallister and Jas. McCracken, were appointed to draft a memorial and resolutions to be presented to the grand jury of Baltimore city, asking that body to redress the grievances complained of. Mr. Bone stated that applications to the city council, the board of health and to the city authorities had all failed, and that they now proposed to try the grand jury. Why the board of health had failed to act in reference to their complaint he would not say, and he also combated the assertion of a city official that the removal of the objectionable factories was not a matter for legislation, but one of law. They, however, had accepted the proposition, and, by applying to the grand jury, now sought the remedy afforded by the law. The preamble and resolutions summarized the grievances, and the grand jury setting forth in detail the objections to the factories, and in decided language declaring the "nuisance" to be unbearable.
The resolutions entered a "solemn protest against the continuance of the fertilizing factories in this or any other thickly populated districts or city; that it is the duty of the civil authorities to suppress said nuisance as early as possible; that we form ourselves into an association to be known as the South Baltimore health and life protecting association, and that we continue to exist until such time as we can rid ourselves of the intolerable nuisance existing in our midst; that we present these preamble and resolutions to the grand jury of Baltimore city." Remarks in advocacy of the resolutions were made by Mr. Bone and Drs.
G. W. Benson and R. H. F. Ellis, the medical gentlemen agreeing that the fumes of the fertilizers are deleterious to health. The memorial was signed by the majority of those present, and much enthusiasm was manifested, whilst perfect order and decorum prevailed.

A Methodist Centenary.—The formation of the First Methodist Episcopal Society in the town of St. Michaels in the year 1779 will be celebrated at St. Michaels to-day. A large pavilion has been erected, in St. Mary's Square, and amongst the prominent speakers expected are Bishop Levi Scott, Bp. J. P. Newman and J. S. Willis, of New York; Geo. A. Froebus, of Delaware, and G. E. Kristor, of New Orleans.
There will also be a Sunday school procession and vocal and instrumental music. The summer Arrowmouth will leave Light-street wharf for St. Michaels this morning at 7 o'clock, and will return in the evening.

Police Cases.—Charles Keyser, committed in default of $5 fine and costs for carrying a concealed revolver; Peter G. Menstall and Jno.
W. Leedrocks, charged with fighting on the steamer Arrowmouth, released for peace; Chas.
Schaum, fined $5 and costs for cutting down in St. Alphonsus Cemetery; Michael Koehler, fined $5 and costs for allowing his wagon to stand on the street overnight; George A. Lee, fined $5 and costs for running his cart without numbers.
