Thursday evening the Imperial Club gave another of its most enjoyable receptions and a ball at the West Chicago Club House on Throop street, which was attended by no less than two hundred ladies and gentlemen. One of the features of this delightful occasion was that several of the "leap-year ones" had previously arranged that it should be a genuine "leap year" affair in all that this custom implies, and, as was anticipated, for a little while, at least, created more or less solicitude in the minds of the many fair ones as to the manner of comparing their charms and attractions with those of the sterner sex. Many indulged in the ever-fascinating progressive euchre, in which several valuable prizes have been won during the season.

The Argyle Pleasure Club held a reception Friday evening at Apollo Hall, 154 couples being present. The members' names are as follows: T. J. Hogan, T. J. Powers, I. T. Fitzpatrick, D. Leonard, F. J. The People's Church Literary and Social Club met Friday evening last at the residence of Mr. Holmes, No. 281 Ashland avenue. Miss Harriet Rauney and Miss Emma Davis were elected Corresponding and Recording Secretaries respectively. Miss Hallie Lease sang two selections. Professor Austin Harbower read an essay on the obscure in literature, claiming it to be rather the result of impotency than great talent, showing also that the greater ability consists in conveying the clearest meaning in a sentence, and that life is too short for the study of the Brownings, Hegels, and Dantes. The paper was unique and deserves more than a passing notice. The club then adjourned to the ball-room to exercise the heels as well as brains, and lingered in the fascinating waltz until awakened by the "Home, Sweet Home." There was a large number in attendance, despite the great fall of the mercury.

One of the handsomest entertainments of the season was the lunch given by Mrs. F. Wills Rice last Monday afternoon at Kinsley's. The beautiful apartments on the third floor were decorated and draped with rare taste, and suggested a homelike and exclusive appearance rarely obtained in an establishment of this nature. The ball-room, with its chaste and ornate decorations, was set apart for the service of the lunch. The tables, each characterized by a distinct and exquisite decoration and arrangement, were scattered through the spacious rooms, and here Mrs. Rice's guests enjoyed a menu perfect in every detail. The hostess was assisted in the reception by Mrs. James W. Ayer and Mrs. Eben Lane. At each cover was a strip of satin ribbon containing the date and year, with a quaintly interlaced monogram in one corner, and glued to the opposite side was a little Havaland bonbon pattie, hand-painted and gold-lined, with the fluted sides folded over. These pretty favors were filled with bonbons, and carried away as souvenirs of this charming entertainment.

Mrs. Horace Tucker and Mrs. Smith J. Sherwood jointly gave a reception to their friends at the Douglas Club, No. 3518 Ellis avenue, Wednesday evening. F. Fleetwood, Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Goddard, Miss Sadie Tucker, Mr. Lee Caswell, Mr. Fred Tucker, Miss C. Farber, Miss Bessie Tucker, Mr. Robert Hale, Mr. Ed Hatch, Mr. Frank Wixon, Miss M. London.

An elegant pink lunch was given by Miss Eleanor Dupee to forty-nine young ladies on Thursday from 1 to 3 o'clock, at her home on Prairie avenue. The lunch was served by Werner in pink courses on little round tables accommodating six persons. Each table was draped with a snowy damask cloth with a pink satin scarf placed diagonally across it, the long fringed ends falling to the floor. A bowl of Russian cut crystal was placed in the center and filled with pink roses. At each plate was laid a strip of pink satin ribbon containing the name of the guest etched in gold. The favors were dainty pink satin, hand painted and with a quaint fanciful monogram of the hostess in gold on one side. Among the guests were Miss Sprague, Miss Kellogg, Miss Hammill, Miss Wells, Miss Haven, Miss Gould, Miss Alling, Miss Davis, Miss Lee, Miss McWilliams, Miss Hunt, Miss Dupee, Miss Kent, Miss Mather, Miss Vanschaack, Miss Cowles, Miss Partridge, Miss Drake, Miss Locke, Miss McKindley, Miss Warner, Miss Walker, Miss Read, Miss Dempster, Miss Spalding, Miss Chamberlain, Miss Adair, Miss Dore, Miss Drake, Miss Ingalls, Miss Booth, Miss Schufeldt, Mrs. Mabbitt, Mrs. Dupee, and Mrs. Van Schaack.
